Words You Must Eliminate From Your Vocabulary

English words with Indian history

Acid

A popular Indian dish made of fermented rice, which is also called “fermented rice.” The word “acid” comes from the Sanskrit word “acide,” which means “sour” or “fermented.”

Acme

“Achieve acme” means to reach the highest or best possible level. The word “acme” comes from the Greek word “akme,” which means “peak” or “highest point.”

Acorn

A small, hard seed that grows on a oak tree. The word “acorn” comes from the Latin word “aesculus,” which means “oak.”

Acquaint

To become acquainted with someone. The word “acquaint” comes from the Latin word “acquintare,” which means “to be informed or made aware.”

Acquittal

A verdict of not guilty. The word “acquittal” comes from the Latin word “acquittare,” which means “to free or absolve.”

Acrid

A harsh or bitter taste. The word “acrid” comes from the Latin word “acruus,” which means “sharp” or “bitter.”

Acrylic

A type of plastic that is often used in paints and plastics. The word “acrylic” comes from the Greek words “a” (not) and “krin” (to separate), which together mean “not separated.”

Act

1. A performance or action. The word “act” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

2. To perform or display. The word “act” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

3. In theater, an act is a part of a play. The word “act” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

Action

An activity or operation that produces a result. The word “action” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

Activity

A way of doing something. The word “activity” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

Active

1. Occupied with doing things. The word “active” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

2. Able to do something. The word “active” comes from the Latin word “actus,” which means “a doing” or “a deed.”

Adapt

To change or adjust to a new situation. The word “adapt” comes from the Latin word “ad” (to) and “aptare” (to fit).

Adjective

A word that describes a noun or pronoun. The word “adjective” comes from the Latin word “ad” (to) and “jectare” (to throw).

Admission

The act of entering. The word “admission” comes from the Latin word “ad” (to) and “missio” (to send).

Adversary

A person or group that is opposed to another. The word “adversary” comes from the Latin word “adversus” (against).

Advance

To move forward or ahead. The word “advance” comes from the Latin word “ad” (to) and “venire” (to come).

Affirmative

A statement that is confirmed or agreed to. The word “affirmative” comes from the Latin word “affirmare” (to assert).

Affirmation

A statement that is confirmed or agreed to. The word “affirmation” comes from the Latin word “affirmare” (to assert).

Affirm

To declare positively. The word “affirm” comes from the Latin word “affirmare” (to assert).

Afflict

To cause suffering or distress. The word “afflict” comes from the Latin word “afflicere” (to strike down).